Georgia Institute of Technology The Sam Nunn School of International Affairs Spring 2011

INTA 6302. GRADUATE SEMINAR: INTERNATIONAL POLITICAL ECONOMY

Instructor: Dr. Fei-Ling Wang Time: Tuesdays 18:00-21:00.

Office Hours: Tuesdays 11:30-18:00 or by appointment.

Office: 214, Habersham House (404-894-1904); E-mail: fw@gatech.edu

The Course:

As a core course of the Nunn School's Graduate Program, this seminar examines some of the basic approaches to the study of International Political Economy (IPE). We will explore the major theories, key concepts and important policy issues in the field of IPE through a reading and discussions of the literature on the state and market, trade and foreign direct investment, collective action, hegemonic stability, economic growth, North-South relations, dependency, technology transfer, globalization and regionalization, international financial market, international terrorism, and environmental issues.

The seminar is a combination of informal lectures and discussions. The students are required to report on the readings and participate in classroom discussions. The assigned readings are expected to be finished before classes.

Course Requirements:

The grading scheme is as follows:

Requirement	(%)
Weekly Reading Reports	20
Critique Essay and Presentation	20
Participation/Attendance	20
Research Paper	40
Total	100

Weekly Reading Reports: Every student is required to write a short (one page, single space) reading report about assigned weekly readings every week. The weekly report should be ready for submission at the beginning of that week's class (in hard copy and electronic version with the subject line of "Week XX Reading Report from XXX"). The reports should be brief summaries of the reading materials.

Critique Essay and Presentation: Each student is required to write a critique essay (not to exceed four pages, single space, or six pages, double space) and orally present it (for no longer than 30 minutes including Q&A) to the class on one of the weekly readings, to be selected and approved by the instructor at our first meeting of the class. The hardcopy of the essay is due at the time of presentation (also submit it electronically with the subject line of "Critique Essay from XXX"). Each essay should critically examine the readings, outlining the main strengths and weaknesses, offering a brief assessment or critique and raising questions for the class to discuss. No outside reading or research is needed but the student is expected to make comments on the reading while utilizing his/her overall knowledge about the subject.

Research Paper: every student is required to write a research paper addressing one theoretical or practical IPE issue. Sample issues include: exploration and protection of the high sea, international financial system, international migration and refugees, international regimes, the fate of socialism, and the issue of international terrorism. Your paper topic must be submitted with a brief justification to the instructor by Week 4. The completed paper is due on the last meeting of our class. It should have 18-20 double-spaced pages, excluding bibliography and cover page. Each student is required to submit a hardcopy and an electronic copy of the paper.

Participation/Attendance is the instructor portion of your grade. It will be based on the quality and the quantity of your participation in class discussions. All views are welcome and those who participate actively will be rewarded accordingly. We all learn from each other's insights.
