AMERICAN GOVERNMENT IN COMPARATIVE PERSPECTIVE

T/Th 1:35 pm – 2:55 pm
Instructional Center 103

Robert Kennedy
Fall 2012

1. Objectives

The objective of this course is to help you better understand how America's government functions and how the American political system works. If you are like most Americans, you already have a basic understanding of how America is governed, but have spent little time thinking about how and why American democracy functions the way it does and how and why its institutions and political system differ from those of other nations. This course is designed to expand the student's awareness of the American political system -- its philosophical origins, its institutions, the distribution of political power, the processes, the complexities, and the basic factors that influence American political behavior and domestic and foreign policy formulation.

It also will provide you with a general understanding of how the American political system differs from others so that you can develop a better appreciation of the benefits and trade-offs of political life in the United States by comparing the institutions and processes of American government with those of other countries.

2. Class Format: Because of the size of the class, the course will be mostly taught in the lecture format. Students are encouraged to raise questions or comments at anytime during the sessions.

2. Required Texts

Christine Barbour & Gerald C. Wright, Keeping the Republic: Power and Citizenship in American Politics, Washington, D.C.: CQ Press, 4th Ed. 2009. (Hereafter referred to as "Text")

4. Prerequisites: None

5. Course Requirements

General: Course members will be expected to attend all classes, complete all assigned readings, and participate in classroom discussions on the subjects addressed in the readings and lectures. Lectures during the course may not cover the readings and will often present and pursue new ideas and information. Students are responsible for the information contained in the readings, whether it is covered or not in lectures, as well as for the information in the lectures. In addition to the regularly course readings, students are encouraged to read at least one major daily newspaper in its print or internet media version.

Quizzes and Examinations. There will be occasional, unannounced quizzes on the readings and/or material provided during the lecture. There will be no make up quizzes. If you miss a quiz and have an approved excuse or you took the quiz but no grade has been posted, you must make that known to the Teaching Assistant by email within a week of the date of the quiz. If you fail to do so, you will not be given credit for an excused absence. If you are feeling ill and can't come to class, visit the health clinic or your doctor to document your absence. If you have an excused absence, your overall quiz grade will be the average of the quizzes you took. Quizzes and Examinations will include multi-choice, true-false, and matching questions and will only be given on the announced dates. A medical or other Georgia Tech approved excuse is the only permissible reasons for missing quizzes or examinations. All electronic equipment (cell phones, iphones, blackberries, blueberries, raspberries, computers, etc.) must be put away/hidden from view during exams. Students found using any such electronic devices will receive an automatic zero for the exam. Exams are currently tentatively schedule on the following dates. However, dates may change. It is the student's responsibility to stay current on the course schedule. Examinations missed for authorized reasons must be taken as soon as possible.

Exam # 1 – September 20

Exam # 2 – October 30

Exam # 3 – December 11 (tentative)

6. Grading: A = 90-100; B = 80-89; C = 70-79; D = 60-69; F = below 60. Those who take the course on a pass or fail basis must have a minimum grade of 70. Grades will not be curved in this course.

Quizzes	10%
Exam # 1	20%
Exam #2	30%
Exam #3	40%

Examinations will cover only the material covered since the previous examination.
